PRESS RELEASE

jadian announces strategic alliance with Intertec Systems LLC Provides stronger outreach into the rapidly growing Middle East markets .

Lansing, MI (August 12, 2006): jadian enterprises, inc today announced a strategic alliance with Intertec Systems LLC, a Dubai-based Information Technology company, to provide e-government software and services.

The alliance provides jadian with a strong partner in the rapidly growing Middle East region. "jadian continues to expand its market reach through relationships with well established local companies like Intertec," said Jerry Norris, President and Chief Executive Officer of jadian.

The first joint project under the agreement will be the development of a technology infrastructure to support the newly formed "Labour Inspection Department" at the United Arab Emirate's Ministry of Labour.

"The alliance with Intertec further reinforces jadian's strategy of international expansion," Norris noted. "jadian's proven software solutions and extensive domain knowledge coupled with Intertec's reputation for managing projects and incorporating the appropriate technologies is a winning combination for the customer."

"As part of our focus to grow the software & services business we have found synergy with jadian to grow not only the software business but also align with our government strategy," said Intertec Systems Managing Director, President & Founder Naresh Kothari.
